The DIMMER VIEW

by Max Goodwin

Jarvis-Gann Fallout

Some of those who predicted debacle in Proposition 13 are now hailing it as the salvation of the state's greatest resource—the California taxpayer.

It brings almost immediate happiness to one great group of property owners. This group—approximately 27 percent of those carrying home mortgages with savings and loan firms in California, will be notified within days that their property tax impound payments are reduced forthwith 50 percent.

Impound accounts are for the convenience of the homeowner who wants to make certain adequate funds are ready at the time property taxes are due each year. A savings and loan association collects, administers and pays taxes on behalf of customers who have mortgage loans with the association.

There may be only one, or even no payments before the July 1 effective date of the Jarvis-Gann initiative, but the tax cost cut is discernible proof that government can be made to act promptly.

Savings and loans cannot impound more than is required to meet a homeowner's tax liability so s&l's began adjusting the amount they could withhold the day following the election (June 6) in which Prop. 13 was approved.

The proposition calls for an average cut in property taxes of 57 percent so an added adjustment will have to be made when the actual tax liability is known.

California's Democratic U.S. Senator, Alan Cranston, issued a bulletin immediately after the election. He sounded a lot like a conservative Republican. He said;

"Jarvis-Gann is like that 2x4 you're supposed to hit a mule with in order to get his attention.

The voters of California have gotten the attention of public officials, all right. "Not just in California but throughout the nation. Including—I might say, especially—in Washington.

"The message they have sent government officials everywhere is:

"1. Taxes must be controlled. Taxes are too high—not just property taxes but all taxes. The federal government, as the biggest tax collector of them all, had better lead the way by bringing taxes down, and eliminating unnecessary government spending.

"2. Government insensitivity must be controlled. People do not feel they are getting full value and service for the money they pay into the government. Rude, inept and evasive public employees—elected as well as appointed—are on notice that the voters expect responsive, understanding and compassionate service.

"3. Inflation must be controlled. Besides all the other evils inflation has brought, it has raised the income taxes paid by millions of middle class Americans by artificially driving them into higher income brackets with inflated dollars. And it has worsened an already terrible property tax situation by artificially driving up assessed valuations, again with inflated dollars."

Assemblyman Bill Craven (R-76th) said: "Many people have asked me how in the world the state treasury has a budget surplus of $3.2 billion that is expected to reach $5 billion next year at a time when the tax load is crushing the middle class.

"State government gets its income from 3 sources: sales, band and corporations and personal income taxes. The state gets almost no property tax revenues."

He noted that the $7 billion that Prop. 13 cut from the combined local and state spending tab of $40 billion will affect mainly local government.

"I am curious why public wrath has not also been directed at excessive spending at the state level," he said.

Cost of living raises designed to help taxpayers keep up with inflation have pushed breadwinners into higher tax brackets, he said.

"The big factor in the state's accumulation of the budget surplus has been the increase in the state's share of the taxpayer's income—not fiscal frugality as some might want taxpayer to believe," he said.

A comforting thought concludes Craven's bulletin: "The Legislature will have to respond to the will of the people by making cuts in state spending to make sure that essential local government services will continue without disruption."

Dog License Fees To Be Increased

Dog license and animal control service fees charged by the County of San Diego will increase effective Saturday.

The Board of Supervisors voted unanimously to approve the fee increases for dog licensing and animal control services which will provide revenue about equal to direct operating costs.

The new fees will increase license costs for unneutered male dogs to $6, the amount presently charged for unspayed females. In addition, one-time, free licenses for one year will be given to all newly neutered dogs. This incentive is given only to female dog owners.

Late-license fees will also increase from $2 to $6, providing further incentive to reduce the number of unlicensed dogs.

Transfer and replacement license fees will increase from $1 to $2 to allow cost recovery for processing these licenses. The disposal fee for euthanized animals will increase from 50 cents to $1 each for animal bodies made available for scientific, medical or teaching purposes, subject to approval; and when the purposes serve the public interest.

New Rates

Fees for dog licenses effective July 1 are:

Neutered dogs: $3 for 6 months, $6 for one year, $8 for 18 months, $10 for 2 years, and $12 for 28 months.

Unneutered dogs: $6 for 6 months, $12 for one year, $16 for 18 months, $20 for 2 years, and $24 for 30 months.

According to Encil Rains, director of the County's Department of Animal Control, only 5 per cent of licensed male dogs are currently neutered, with no practical approach to animal overpopulation. By providing incentives for both male and female dogs, owners will be encouraged to spay/neuter their animals.

The city of Lemon Grove will be included in the affected areas, as a contract with Lemon Grove is in process and will be effective July 1.

Prop. 13 Benefits SDG&E Consumers

A preliminary study indicates that Proposition 13 might permit San Diego Gas and Electric to pass on as much as $13.6 million to its customers, the company announced.

Unknown, as yet, are any local taxes that may be added to help offset expected losses to city and county governments. Should any of the taxes be assessed, SDG&E reported, the savings would be less than presently anticipated.

75 Cent Rate Lower Than Last Year

Lower Property Tax Bill May Hasten 75¢ City Tax

The city's budget is a complex thing at best.

The uncertainty of the manner by which property tax will be distributed—and even more uncertain is the amount—allows little hope for a year's budget being a precise document.

It was in this atmosphere Monday evening that the council and its staff tried to see into the future without the benefit of a crystal ball.

A budget of $1,449,067 was given an interim approval.

"The goal is to assure the public that we're seeking ways to live within the budget without reducing services now available or contracted for," Mayor Jim Dorman said. He indicated the City would be able to meet its obligations in 1978-79.

"We are assuming that there will be $162,000 in property tax—about 40 per cent of what we have planned.

City manager Jack Shelver said the assumption appeared to be about as good as anyone could give.

"We don't know how the county will divide up the tax income this year. No formula has been agreed upon yet. We're in an awkward position because we have no prior record and it is possible that they (the county) will distribute on the basis of the last several years' performance," said Shelver.

Shelver said it was only a guess but it is probable that the city tax may be the most allowable—75 cents for each $100 assessed valuation. Even at 75 cents it would be 11 cents lower than last year. The budget discussion will continue in future meetings until it is known how much money will be available to the City.

A 50 cent rate would produce $380,000. 75 cents would make it $581,000.

Shelver said the City's operation would be "austere."

A more succinct approach will be taken when the property tax income has been decided.

In other business, the council approved a $435,000 contract with the sheriff's department to enforce laws of the new city for a year. Two radar units are included in the total, Shelver noted. Mayor Dorman said that police protection will be at a much higher level than it had been in the past.

In other business, the council approved a bus loading zone to be established in front of 2341 El Prado where a resident operates a home for handicapped children. Some area drivers leave no place for the bus to take on or discharge passengers and youngsters sometimes were forced to walk to the middle of the street to board the bus.

Council approved Fire Chief Bob Adams to sign agreements with Pepper Oil to clean up oil spills should they occur. Pepper is the only firm capable of doing the mop-up job. it was said. There would be no charge for the service but the firm wants the city to guarantee the bill. Council agreed.

Council approved $500 for the school district to purchase balls and other small sports equipment for the summer school recreation programs to be held on the school grounds and in the L.G. park.

The City will continue to use County Animal Regulation services for animal control.

After a discussion on the proper operation of the L.G. Park at Washington-Alton, and Berry Street Park, Mayor Dorman instructed City Manager Shelver to meet with a park committee which is in the process of being named. Vice Mayor Burns will represent the City on the committee. An 8-page book of rules used by the County will be the operational guide.

A public hearing on sewer service charges is scheduled for the July 3 meeting. The hearing is important only because it puts the charges already being made on the tax roll.

A complaint has been filed by a citizen who charges a carpet firm is being operated in a residential location on Cameron st. in Monterey Heights. The matter is being referred to the County Planning.

The next meeting is July 3 at the Community Center at 7:30 p.m.

Jail vs. Year's Program Is Drunk Drivers' Choice

East County's convicted drinking drivers may be allowed to participate in a one year alcoholism program instead of going to jail or losing their driving privileges following action by the San Diego Board o Supervisors recently.

The Board approved 5 applications for Convicted Drinking Driver Programs in El Cajon, Oceanside, National City, central San Diego and at North Island Naval Air Station in San Diego.

Family Alcoholism Counseling and Educations Services (FACES) received the contract for East County. The program will be located at 232 S. Magnolia st. in El Cajon.

Under a new state law, judges may allow persons convicted of driving under the influence to retain their driver's license if they agree to complete a year long alcoholism education and counseling program.

Although a judge may refer any convicted drinking driver to the program, most of the clients will have at least two drinking driving convictions.

The year long program includes 26 sessions of individual counseling, 52 hours of group sessions and 12 hours of educational classes geared to provide information on alcohol use and abuse.

An estimated 1,900 drinking drivers will receive services from the 5 programs during the first year of operation, according to Robert Reynolds, chief of the Alcohol Division of the County's Department of Substance Abuse.

"The programs are entirely self-supporting by client fees and require no county funding," Reynolds said. "Fee will be adjusted according to the client's ability to pay.

"All program participants will be required to maintain abstinence while enrolled and to attend weekly meting of Alcoholics Anonymous or an acceptable alternative."

Participants will be terminated from the program for poor attendance or for drinking alcoholic beverages. Expelled persons will be returned to the courts where they will face traditional sanctions of the law.

"Our goal is to protect the public safety through a comprehensive alcohol treatment program designed to rehabilitate the drinking driver," Reynolds said. "In the past many who had license suspensions drove anyway. This law enables the county to provide alcoholism services while drivers retain their driving privileges."

Last year in San Diego County there were 25,322 arrests for driving while intoxicated. A County report shows that 56 per cent of the County's highway fatalities and 66 per cent of all single-car cresh deaths were alcohol related.

Mills Fights Shutdown of Local Transit

Senate President Pro Tem James R. Mills, D-San Diego, has taken steps that will avert a shutdown of local transit services in California as a result of Prop. 13's passage.

Mills has amended his Senate Bill 1900 to remove requirements that local transit operators maintain a certain level of local funding in order to continue receiving special transit funds.

Under current law a local transit system cannot receive state Transit Development Act (TDA) funds if local monies fall below the average level maintained for a preceding two-year period. TDA funds come from a quarter per cent share of state sales tax returned to local government.

SB 1900 will impose a two-year moratorium on the maintenance of local funding efforts. The bill also is now an urgency measure.

Mills is the author of the 1971 TDA which this year will generate $240 million for local transit systems.

"Local transit will be particularly vulnerable to service cutbacks as a result of Proposition 13's impact on local government," noted Mills.

"I do not believe that persons dependent on public transit should suffer. Proposition 13 is going to cause enough hardship. These amendments will assure that transit services do not suddenly cease after July 1," he declared.

The boy's body was recovered by San Diego city lifeguards at 2:55 p.m. after he was reported missing from among the members of the 4th- and 5th-grade class of teacher John Bittinger.

There's An Answer

By Norman Vincent Peale and Ruth Stafford Peale

College dropout in jail

Q. I ran out of finances and had to drop out of college. Then I got off with a bad crowd of people and they talked me into drinking, real bad. From this, they started me to writing bad checks. I am now in jail for this. For the last few weeks I have been in a very depressed mood. I don't seem to know what to do. I feel the good Lord has forgiven me. On the other hand, I am lost. What can I do? Please help me.

A. Your first mistake is in blaming everyone else for what you did. You are the one who did the wrong things and got yourself in jail.

It is only natural that you should be in a depressed mood, having messed up your life.

It is good you feel the Lord has forgiven you. Now forgive yourself and change your thinking and your ways. That it all you have to do. Then you will no longer feel lost.

We have a booklet, "You've Got a Future!" which has helped others suffering from depression and discouragement, and a copy of it is on its way to you. Anyone wishing a free copy may write to us in care of Box 500, Pawling, NY 12564.

Not going to end romance

Q. I'm a 14-year-old girl that's going steady with a 17-year-old guy. We have been going steady for a year and have had no fuss from our parents. And now all of a sudden my mother and stepfather said I can't go out with him any more and have to break up. We love each other very much. Either my parents don't know that or just won't face the idea. So what can I do to convince them that we aren't going to break up and how much we care for each other?

A. There must be a reason why your parents think you should break off this relationship.. If you want to be mature and handle the situation rationally, sit down with them and ask them to tell you why.

Then consider their objection thoughtfully. Reason the matter out with them unemotionally, for your future depends upon sensible decisions.

Can't take any more

Q. My dear husband died after 51 happy years of marriage. I see my two children only once in awhile. I love my 14 grandchildren and 10 great grandchildren, but they seldom come to see me unless invited for dinner. My son hasn't written or phoned in six weeks Why?

I can't find any interest in going anywhere but church. I feel like I can't take any more. Don't want to tell my minister about my feelings. He knows my family, and I don't want him not to like them.

A. You have the wrong idea about your minister. He is more than a social person. He is a doctor of personality. And how people act does not govern his likes or dislikes.

Tell him everything. He won't be shocked or fazed in any way. And he is the one to help you because he knows you and your family and therefore is in a better position to advise you in your relationship with your children and their families.

If there is something you would like to ask Dr. and Mrs. Peale to discuss in this column, write to them in care of Box 500, Pawling, NY 12564.

'Awareness' Course Offered at SDSU

If, as some scientists mainteain, man normally uses only one side of his brain, a unique course at San Diego State University this summer should open new pathways for its participants.

"The Other Side of Awareness" is a short course offered in three weeknd sessions. "We will encourage students to use the other side of the brain, not just the side developed by school and society," said the psychologist who will teach the course. "Traditional training, through words and numbers, limits our ability to experience life."

Dr. Ralpr L. Miller, Professor of Counselor Education, and his wife, Dawn, have created the course, which will attempt to demonstrate how new awareness can be gained that will enhance one's everyday functioning and satisfaction levels.

"The Other Side of Awareness" will use such untraditional modes of learning as self-hypnotism, art, Tai Chi and discussions with writers and musicians. No prior experience is required for the activity-oriented workshop, which is based on the challenge and discovery theory of learning.

It will be offered on Fridays from 4:30-10 p.m. and Saturdays from 8:30a.m.-6:30 p.m., on June 23-24, July 7-8 and July 14-15, in the Adams Humanities Building, Room 2108.

Three units of credit are given for the course at a tuition fee of $111. Since SDSU's Summer Programs do not receive state support, all programs are operated on a self-supporting basis.

For further information or registration materials, call the SDSU Summer Programs Office at 286-5152.

LOCAL GIRLS HONORED — Gwendolyn Saylor, left and Judy Lindeneau will represent Mt. Miguel and Monte Vista high schools, respectively, at the 35th annual "Girls State" citizenship sessions sponsored next week in Sacramento by the American Legion Auxiliary.

Local Students to Attend American Legion Gathering

Judy Lindenlan of Monte Vista High School and Gwendolyn Saylor of St. Miguel will represent their schools June 26 through July 4 in American Legion Auxiliary "Girls State" sessions to be held at the University of California at Sacramento.

The girls are among six representing schools of the Grossmont Union High School District, sponsored by La Mesa Unit No. 282 of the American Legion Auxiliary.

Debbie Dibb of Lemon Grove had been scheduled to represent Mt. Miguel but at the last moment as unable to go. Miss Saylor was her alternate.

Purpose of the sessions is to provide citizenship training for high school girls, to let them live together as self-governing citizens and inform them of the duties, rights and responsibilities of American citizenship.

This Week's RECIPE

Barbecued Tip Roast

A beef tip roast is an excellent choice for rotisserie roasting. It's easy to balance this compact cut on the rod so that it turns evenly and steadily. Since this roast is lean, boneless and practically waste-free, it provides more flavor-packed slices of meat per pound than most cuts. Brushing it with barbecue sauce, as in this recipe, supplies a popular supplmentary flavor.

Barbecued Tip Roast

4 to 6-pound beef tip roast, tied
Barbecue Sauce

Insert rotisserie rod lengthwise through center of roast. Balance roast and tighten spit forks to fasten meat securely so that it turns only with the rod. Insert roast meat thermometer at a slight angle, so the tip is in the center of the roast but not resting in fat or on rotisserie rod. Place on rotisserie and roast at moderate temperature until meat thermometer registers 130°F. Continue roasting, brushing frequently with barbecue sauce to desired degree on doneness — 140°F to 160°F. When thermometer registers about 5°F below desired doneness, remove meat from rotisserie and allow to stand 10 to 15 minutes before carving into thin slices.

Note: A boneless rump roast or chuck eye or cross rib of high quality can be used.

'Gray Panther' Set For El Cajon Speech

In 1970, Maggie Kuhn founded the Gray Panthers to combat what she called "the Detroit syndrome" in American society, or "the junking of the elderly like old cars." She has since become a nationally-recognized advocate for a better life for elderly persons. On Thursday, June 29 she will give a lecture, Liberation from "Agism," at 2 p.m. in the East County Performing Arts Center, 210 E. Main st., El Cajon.

The program is offered free as a community service by the Office of Community Education of the Grossmont Community College District.

With a small group of friends, Ms. Kuhn organized the Gray Panthers which has been effective in its work to clean up nursing homes, effect the end of mandatory retirement, provide adequate housing, and lobby for a national health care system.

Ms. Kuhn does not see the elderly as a special interest group, nor is she an advocate for senior power; rather, she views life as a continual growth process, a lifelong process in which the elderly must take charge and become active citizens in their own present and future.

A graduate of Case-Western Reserve University, Ms. Kuhn worked for many years as Associate Secretary in the United Presbyterian Office of Church and Society. She retired in 1970 as Coordinator of Program in the Division of Church and Race. She was also editor of the magazine "Social Progress."

She is the author of two books, teaches courses on Advocacy for the Aging, and is a frequent speaker throughout the country.

Program to Examine Initiative Process

As public officials in California struggle with budget cuts imposed by Proposition 13, "Newsthink" examines the process which made it possible, Friday, June 23 at 10:30 p.m. on KPBS-TV, Channel 15.

"Taking the Initiative: A debatable Proposition?" explores the public's right to enact laws by popular vote.

Avrum Stroll, professor of philosophy, UCSD, and Joseph Tussman, professor of philosophy, UC Berkeley, examine the critical question behind the initiative process: can "the people" write laws as responsibly as the politicians?

Helen Hawkins of KPBS-TV traces the process by which Proposition 13 became law. She interviews State Assembly Speaker Leo McCarthy, and talks to the "man on the street" about the message voters sent to Sacramento by passing the tax-limitation initiative.

Helen Hawkins also hosts this edition of "Newsthink", which repeats Sunday, June 25 at 3:30 p.m.

SV Club Hosts Picnic

The Spring Valley Woman's Club will have a pot-luck picnic Wednesday, 11:30 a.m., in Eucalyptus Park, Northcraft dr., La Mesa.

The event will close the club's activities for the summer. May Williams, club hostess, will be in charge.

COMBO '78 Raises $200,000; Most in History of Drive

More than $200,000 has been contributed to COMBO '78, the largest amount ever raised in San Diego's annual united arts campaign.

The announcement was made by campaign chairman Gerald G. O'Brien June 13 at a report meeting and celebration for campaign workers aboard the tour boat Marietta.

The $201,943 received in cash and pledges to date is 86 per cent of the fund drive's $235,000 goal. Proceeds are shared by the 18 cultural organizations that are members of COMBO, the Combined Arts and Education Council of San Diego County.

"Thanks to the county's business community, our goal is in sight," O'Brien told the gathering of more than 225 volunteers. "We're going to extend the campaign and make an all-out effort during the next month to reach and even top that figure.

"We urge everyone in the community who is concerned about the arts and aware of their contribution to get behind this campaign and join us in our push for the top," O'Brien added. "We hope that everyone who has not donated will make a special effort to contribute to COMBO '78."

Funds raised this year represent a record increase of 41.5 per cent over the $142,461 contributed in 1977. Giving to campaigns since 1970 has hovered at $140,000.

Donors to COMBO '78 numbehed 632, more than double the number who contributed to past fund raising efforts.

Since the May 1 kick-off, approximately 1000 volunteer fund raisers have solicited businesses throughout the county. Assisting them were 18 loaned executives supplied by local firms. Campaign director was Cecil S. Feldman, a veteran fund raiser with 30 years' experience in United Way campaigns.

Other highlights of the report meeting included the presentation of awards to volunteer leaders, loaned executives and corporate representatives whose firms contributed their pro rata share or conducted successful executive giving campaigns.

Members of COMBO include California Ballet, Centro Cultural de la Raza, Civic Youth Orchestra, La Jolla Chamber Music Society, La Jolla Museum of Contemporary Art, North County Community Theatre of Vista, Old Globe Theatre, Patio Playhouse of Escondido, San Diego Ballet, San Diego Civic Light Opera (Starlight), San Diego Civic Youth Ballet, San Diego Junior Theater, San Diego Opera, San Diego Repertory Theatre, San Diego Symphonic Chorale, San Diego Symphony, Southeast San Diego Community Theater and Young Audiences.

Charlton Heston Named MC Of 'Globe Benefit June 30

Actor Charlton Heston will serve as Master of Ceremonies for "The Old Globe Benefit" to be held Friday June 30, benefit Chairman Robert Van Stelle announced.

"After starring roles in film, theatre and television, Heston said this is one stage opportunity he couldn't turn down," said Van Stelle.

"The Old Globe Benefit", a black tie dinner-dance and gala costume review with Edith Head will be held at the Atlas Ballroom of the Town & Country Hotel.

Other celebrities who plan to attend include Rita Hayworth, William Shatner, Sally Struthers, Bill Dana, Anthony Zerbe, Ross Martin, Patti Page, Michelle Lee and Michael Ansara.

Heston is also serving as the national chairman for The Old Globe Centre for Performing Arts fundraising campaign.

Immediately following the fire which destroyed San Diego's nationally renowned Old Globe Theatre, Heston was one of the first celebrities to volunteer his support towards its rebuilding.

His attitude towards the theatre and his own acting career is one of dedication and enthusiasm.

"I can't remember a time when I didn't want to be an actor."

His first Shakespearean role was in 1971 as Antony in the first film version of "Antony and Cleopatra". However he was selected to serve as dual role as both leading actor and director for the picture as well.

"Few Shakespearean directors have done films," he says, 'and few film directors have done Shakespeare. The ones who do both, Larry Olivier and Orson Welles, weren't available. Besides, the producer figured that I've worked with so many great directors, including Olivier and Welles, that some of their talent must have rubbed off on me."

Funds realized from "The Old Globe Benefit" will go toward the $6.3 million fund drive to build the Old Globe Centre for Performing Arts. Reservations for best table locations and seating with celebrities are being made on a first-come, first served priority basis. Ticket reservations can be made by calling 422-2404. Checks should be made payable to "The Old Globe Development Fund".

L.G. Players' First Venture Nets $1,900

By Robert Burns

A post production meeting of the Lemon Grove Players was given the good news that their first effort, "The Fireman's Flame", was a financial success as well as an artistic one.

Treasurer Harold Berg reported $1,900 in the black and the turnout of members and prospective participants gave additional evidence of the group's success.

The Players have donated $100 from the proceeds of the May 14 performance to the fund drive to rebuild the Old Globe theatre in Balboa Park.

President Bob Adams commended those who contributed to the project and Secretary Don Dubois reported approval from the IRS of the tax exempt status for the Association.

Officers for the coming year are: president, Dr. Robert Burns; vice president, Dave Reardon; secretary, Janny Cameron; treasurer, Harold Berg, and directors Bob Adams, Estelle Lauer, Ed Bolieu, Ann-Charlotte Harvey, and Terri Simmons.

The next general meeting will be September 12 at a place to be announced.

The officers and Board will be meeting to discuss choice of plays, directors, and facilities for the next performances. The group's resident artistic inspiration and theatre "guru", Dorthe Du Bois, painted some exicting vocal pictures of what is to come for Lemon Grove via the Lemon Grove Players.

The meeting was concluded with film clips showing of the "Flame".

The Lemon Grove Players are dedicated to the entertainment of Lemon Grove families with quality theatre that they can either witness or participate in. Everyone is welcomed to take a part of this exciting new project.

Chargers Replace Gross with Kelly

Tom Kelly, radio voice of the USC football and basketball teams since 1961, has been named play-by-play broadcaster of San Diego Chargers games on radio station KSDO replacing Jerry Gross.

Kelly, a Minneapolis native, began his broadcasting career in 1947 and worked in Duluth, Minnesota, Des Moines, Iowa, and Peoria, Illinois, before coming to Los Angeles in 1961 toestablish a career that has brought him recognition as one of the finest sportscasters in the West.

Kelly will be joined in the KSDO radio booth by John DeMott, who served on the Chargers' broadcast crew in 1977.

KSDO again will offer extensive game-day coverage of the Chargers, beginning with Sports Talk an hour and a half before each Chargers game and resuming after the Lockerroom Show following the game. Sports Talk will be hosted by Bob Chandler.

The Tommy Prothro Show and Pat Curran's NFL Weekend also will be part of the KSDO-Chargers package.

Peugeots Prizes At Golf Tourney

Two Peugeot 604s, valued at more than $13,500 each, and vacations for two to Tahiti, Europe and the Orient top the list of prizes up for grabs in the eighth annual Dick Whittinghill Invitational Golf Tournament July 29 at Los Alamitos.

All proceeds from the celebrity-amateur tourney go to the cancer work being done at Long Beach Community Hospital.

One of the Peugeots is this year's hole-in-one prize, while the other will be given away in a drawing conducted by the hospital.

Topping the more than 100 prizes and hundreds of tee gifts being sought by the competing golfers are a one-week all-inclusive vacation for two in Tahiti, a choice of a two-week vacation in Rome-Paris-London or Hong Kong-Bangkok-Singapore, and a $600 set of Grafalloy woods with grafite shafts and persimmon heads.

Each competitor will also be receiving a special gold chain and pendant for his lady from Zales's Jewelers and "product samples" from Beck's Beer.

Padres Homestand to End As Season's Midpoint Nears

The San Diego Padres will close out a lengthy 19-game homestand, the club's longest of the season, next week with meetings with National League Western Division rivals Atlanta, Houston and San Francisco.

The closing stages of the homestand will be rather hectic as the Padres will actually be playing 9 games in 7 days thanks to a regularly scheduled doubleheader and a second twin bill necessitated by a rainout earlier in the campaign.

But, first things first.

Kicking off the last portion of the stand today will be the final of 3 meetings with the Atlanta Braves. Game time for the series finale will be 1 p.m. as the date will be another in the series of Business Specials with an afternoon start instead of the usual weekday time of 7 p.m.

Then, the Houston Astros will come in for 4 games in 3 days. The two clubs will meet in a single game on Friday, and follow that with a single 6 p.m. affair on Saturday and conclude with a 1 p.m. doubleheader on Sunday.

Finally, to close out the homestand, the Padres will face the San Francisco Giants in another 4 games in 3 days situation. The Pads and Giants will square off in 7 p.m. single contests Monday and Tuesday, June 26-27 and then put the wraps on both the series and homestand with a 5 p.m. twin bill on Wednesday.

The closeout double dip with San Francisco is a change in the schedule from the original 7 p.m. single game. The doubleheader was brought about when the Padres and Giants had their August 15 second game of the season rained out. The change in schedule, however, will not alter the Padres plans for a gala post-game fireworks display. This event will still take place immediately following the second game.

With the Giants out of the way, the Padres will then be taking to the road and will not play again in San Diego until Friday, July 21 when the Chicago Cubs come to town to help the Pads open a 12-game homestand.

The Padres will hit the midway 81-game point on the road in early July. San Diego will have 38 home games in the second half.

HAPPY CHAMPIONS — Baseball Hall of Famer Hank Greenberg (left) and basketball superstar Rick Barry congratulate one another after winning Dewar's sports celebrity tennis tournament last year. Pair is among 39 outstanding athletes from 10 sports competing in the mixed doubles this week at the Hotel Riviera courts in Las Vegas.

Franco Harris, Peyton, Dorsett Compete in Dewars Net Tourney

LAS VEGAS — OK, trivia buffs, what pro football team rolled for 4021 yards and 222 points last season?

No team, just the three contestants in the Dewar's sports celebrity tennis tournament who were the greatest running backs in pro football in 1977.

Tournament chairman Iz Becker said Walter Payton, Franco Harris and Tony Dorsett will be competing in the round-robin, mixed doubles event this week at the Hotel Riviera courts.

Payton, NFL Most Valuable Player, and Harris are making their debuts, while Rookie of the Year Dorsett played for the first time last year.

Payton gained 1852 yards for the Chicago Bears last season and scored 14 touchdowns. Harris ran for 1162 yards and 11 touchdowns for the Pittsburgh Steelers and Dorsett tallied 1007 yards and 12 touchdowns for the Super Bowl Champion Dallas Cowboys.

39 outstanding athletes from 10 different sports will be competing for the Dewar's Cup.

FOOTBALL: Walter Payton, Franco Harris, Tony Dorsett, Craig Morton, Ken Anderson, John Cappelletti, Bob Klein, Merlin Olsen, Dan Fouts, James Harris, George Atkinson, Lynn Swann, Archie Griffin, Steve Grogan, Jim Hart, Deacon Jones, Bob Avellini and Paul Warfield.

BASKETBAL: Ann Meyers, Paul Westphal. John Havlicek, Rick Barry, Julius (Dr. J.) Erving, Bob Lanier, Earl Monroe, Calvin Murphy, Walt Frazier and Mychal Thompson (top draft choice from Minnesota).

TRACK: Wilma Rudolph and Francie Larrieu.

HOCKEY: Rogie Vachon and Rod Gilbert.

SKATING: Sheila Young and Judy Sladky.

SKIING: Suzy (Chapstick) Chaffee and Genia Fuller.

SWIMMING: Donna de Varona.

HoC Lists Stars Of CIF Baseball

The San Diego Hall of Champions announced their 1978 All California Interscholastic Federation San Diego Section first and second baseball teams, selected by a committee of prep sports writers representing San Diego County.

Heading the list of players is Brad Palmer, Escondido High School, who was picked as "Player of the Year." His record was 10 wins against only 2 losses during the year, and he supported an earned run average of 0.99. During the season he pitched a total of 85 innings.

The first and second team selections were well divided, with only one team, Granite Hills, placing more than 2 players on the first and second squads. Brian Graham, outstanding all-around athlete, was selected as a first team infielder along with catcher Gary Hanson. Kent Paine was put on the second team as an outfielder. None were named from Mt. Miguel or Monte Vista.

University High School, the CIFSDS 1978 baseball champions, placed Tom Keating, their outstanding junior pitcher, who had a record of 15 wins and 1 loss, on the first squad along with infielder Andy Asaro, who hit .406 and had 34 runs batted in.

Kearny High School placed two players on the first squad: Brian Giles, infielder, hitting .435, with 33 runs batted in, and first baseman Jack Daugherty, batting .416.

The leading slugger of the first squad is Billy Beane, Mt. Carmel's Sophomore outfielder who hit .494, had 36 runs batted in during the 1978 year.

Another outstanding hitting outfielder was Paul Kelley, Marian High school's all-around athlete, who hit .490 and had 24 runs batted in.

Alan Goodwin, Hoover High school, was selected as the first team Utility Player. He had a 12 win and 1 loss pitching record, played infield and also caught during the season. He hit .385.

The first team selection is probably one of the strongest hitting teams in the history of the CIFSDS. The team averaged .429.

Chess Tourney Set for Winery

SAN FRANCISCO—The 6th Annual Paul Masson American Class Chess Championships will be held on Saturday and Sunday, July 22nd and 23rd at the historic Paul Masson Mountain Winery in Saratoga (near San Jose).

The Masson Tournament ranks as the largest all-class as well as the largest rated outdoor tournament in the world. It offers the largest prize fund — $15,000 — at the least expensive entry fee of major open tournaments. It also offers, much to the delight of the chess players, between-rounds wine breaks of Masson Vineyards.

Games fill be played under the Swiss System (players with similar scores play each other; no one is eliminated): four games in the Master, Expert and A Sections and five games in the B, C, D, E, and Unrated Sections. All sections are rated under the United States Chess Federation's national rating system.

The Masson Chess Championships are open to all players who are or will become members of the U.S. Chess Federation by the start of the tournament, July 22nd.

As before, this popular tournament will be limited to 700 players. Prompt advance entry is recommended to ensure a place. All entries must be postmarked by July 2nd. No late entries will be accepted at the site, except for those joining the U.S. Chess Federation for the first time.

Junior Golfers Tournament Set For July 11-14

Entries from overseas and other states are flooding the offices of the S.D. County Junior Golf Assn. for the 11th annual Optimist Junior World golf tournament set for July 11-14 at four courses in San Diego.

Tournament director Mrs. A. S. (Lou) Smith anticipates some 650 youngsters from around 28 —countries and 35 states will participate in the Junior World event sponsored by the Association with major assistance from Optimist International and the PGA.

Boys and girls 15-17 years of age will compete all four days at Torrey Pines. The 13-14-year division at Balboa Park, the 11-12 class at Mission Bay and the 10-and-under boys and girls at Presidio Hills will play only the first three days.

A total of 31 qualifying tournaments will be held throughout the U. S. for the 15-17 division under auspices of the P.G.A. and the Optimist International. Many foreign Golf Associations also hold competitions to determine whom they will send here.

Trophies are awarded to the five lowest boy and girl scores in all divisions except 15-17 boys where eight are given out. Five International Trophies are also given out in the 15-17 class.

All players will be hosted at a "Welcome Picnic Supper" on July 9 at the San Diego Zoo featuring entertainment, player presentations and famed golfer Bruce Crampton as guest speaker.

Last year's 10th anniversary Junior World event drew over 700 entrants including 117 from outside the U. S. Notable entries included the sons of Jack Nicklaus (Jack, II) Bill Casper (Bobby), Bruce Develin (Kelvin), Paul Harney (Tim) and Bing Crosby (Nate).

Once Upon A Time

Some people believed that a rooster crowing during the day meant a friend would visit.

TAKE FIVE

by John E. Wirges

There are Decathlons and Pentathlons for those who like to run around in colored underwear and do athletic things and sweat and shake hands 47 different ways.

It just doesn't seem fair, somehow. There's nothing for those of us who prefer to sit and watch others do the running and jumping and such. In our way we're experts, too.

What the world needs now is a Decath-O-Fan Competition for the armchair crowd. Something for those of us who are expert at doing nothing. It could be a new high in trash sports.

Competition would certainly be keen in any number of events that have been developed to an art form by sports fans during the age of television.

We've seen it all. Football, baseball, basketball, golf, auto racing, Network Stars competition. Now, I believe, the TV Sports Fan of America is ready for his own competition.

A number of events come readily to mind for any Decath-O-Fan meet. In the interests of sheet competition, the following list of events is offered as a balance between endurance, mental and timed competition.

PEANUT TOSS

One event would have to be the Peanut Toss. Each entrant gets 25 tries and must toss a shelled peanut at least 10 feet in the air and catch it as it falls in his (or her) mouth. No hands allowed after the toss. The Peanut Toss could easily be developed into a team event and doubles competition.

BEER DRINKING

A sure second competition would have to be the Beer Drinking. This would have to be a double point value competition with a score awarded for quickness in a per-can try, and additional scores given for total consumption over a three hour period.

Any rest room stops would disqualify the entrant for total consumption awards consideration.

SNACK EATING

The first really big timed event could be the Snack Eating test. Each contestant would be given a snack plate complete with cheese, meat and finger foods. At a given signal, they start snacking away with both hands. No spillage would be allowed.

The first one finished would be declared the winner with all other places determined by the weight of the foods left on the plate when the winner stops the clock.

NAME CALLING

In the Name Calling contest, memory and imagination would play a large part. The rules say you must not repeat yourself in a two minuate diatribe against your opponent. There are no other rules, save one. As you degrade and insult your opponent and he (or she) loses his (or her) cool and punches you in the nose, you are an automatic winner. While they may be satisfied, they are also disqualified.

GOLF HUSTLE

In the Golf Hustle, the idea is to see how many different bets you can get down on a single individual in a regulation Professional Golf Association Tour event with the object in mind that no matter what happens on the links, you must break even.

You must have a minimum of ten different bets to qualify for the finals of this competition.

WINE TASTING

Next would come the Wine Tasting episode. This would be a blind-folded test in which each contestant must identify Green Apple from Ripple with only one swallow of beer to rinse out the mouth between tastes. Oh, yes. Each contestant must drink a pint of each wine before taking the test.

SANDWICH BUILDING

Another competition that would develop into a great favorite is the Sandwich Building contest. This would be another timed event with contestants limited to just two minutes between a Le Mans start from a sitting chair in the living room to a return thereof with the sandwich in hand.

The two minute period was adopted because that is the standard length of a commercial break during a network television football contest.

Points would be awarded for the total number of ingredients in the sandwich with bonus points for different layers of cheese and meats. Catsup, mustard and mayonnaise each count one point only, even though they may be used on different levels of construction.

All contestants must be seated within the two minute time limit to qualify. Dropped items will not count in total points, however if enough identifiable substance remains in the sandwich that item will count.

BOOZE INCORPORATION

Another favorite test would be the Booze Incorporation contest. This is an open ended competition with no time limit, however contestants must eat their creation to qualify.

The idea is to develop different ways in which whiskey, gin, scotch, and vodka can be incorporated in regular meals.

One favorite is Gin and Peaches for breakfast. Another is Scotch and milk on your corn flakes. No sugar need by added. Vodka in the gravy is always a winner and many a man finds whiseky very tasteful in his beans and corn bread.

Creations would be judged on the number of different kinds of boze and the total amount of booze used.

GAME WATCHING

A solid bid as the toughest event in the Decath-O-Fan would be the Multi-TV Game Watching. TV Quiz shows would be used in the spring and summer, while Football Games would be the logical test in the fall and early winter.

You must face a minimum of three TV sets over a three hour period, with the sound turned up. You must repeat each question, describe each contestant and give their answer. Football quizes would include team names, players, plays, and TV announcers.

TOTAL RECALL

The final event, and the tie breaker if needed, would be a total recall of all the commercials, from start to finish, of each commercial break in the above three hour viewing period on any network. Bonus points would be awarded if the viewing was spread over all three networks with a minimum of one hour per network.

There you have it. An honest, true value Decath-O-Fan for all the armchair, non-activists who join together to make America one of the great viewing nations of the world. What more can you say?

Wilson to Meet Lopez At the Coliseum June 30

The battle between light-heavyweight boxer Ronnie Wilson of El Cajon and Alvero Lopez, the reigning champion of Baja California is scheduled for Friday June 30 at the S.D. Coliseum.

Wilson is a classic boxer who carries a devasting right. Lopez gained the top of the Baja heap as a brawler.

It'll go 10 rounds or less.

Returning to the ring after a 6 month rest is the pride of Chula Vista, Heavyweight David Wynne. He'll meet Elliot Bryant of Los Angeles. Bryant appears frequently at the Coliseum and always gives a good account of himself. Wynne usually brings a crowd of supporting fans when he fights. They occupy 2 or 3 rows near ringside. He decided to take a vacation after he suffered a sound defeat early this year.

4 other bouts will round out the card.

Old Time Pilots Booked For Cajon Speedway Event

It will be a night for nostalgia at Cajon Speedway Saturday night.

While the super stocks will do battle in another 9-event show, drivers from the past will come out of retirement and take to the 3/8 mile, paved oval for their annual 10-lap race.

The old timer's event will include Carl Adams and Russ Bullen, both top drivers at Cajon from a decade ago. Adams more recently competed on the NASCAR Grand National circuit in the South and is now an engine builder in Lemon Grove.

Bullen is a two time Cajon titlist. Others entered for the race include defending race winner Billy Harrell, Gil Stephens, Kathy Overman, Jeanne Hageman, Cactus Henyan, Mike Rubin, Helen Elliot, Jim McCormack and track announcer, Tom McGrath.

But while the old-timers will be featured, the highlight should be the 40-lap, 22-car main event. Race time is 8 with qualifying for the expected field of 50 machines set for 6:30.

Other racing events include two 4-lap trophy dashes, four 8-lap heat races, a 10-lap consolation, a 10-lap limited stock race, and a 20-lap B main and the 40-lap finale.

Saturday, Larry Owens became the 3rd driver this season to win his first career main event. It is becoming a year of opportunity for all super-stock pilots on the Gillespie Field oval.

But they'll have to deal with young Ron Esau who was black-flagged the week before for spinning his father George in the north turn. He watched Saturday's event from the pits.

Esau has 1360 points—380 more than his nearest competitor. Gary Crossland, the runner-up, has 980.

Sockers Seek Revenge In California Surf Game

The San Diego Sockers will travel to Anaheim Saturday for a rematch against their North American Soccer League divisional rival California Surf. Game time is 7:30 p.m. The game will be telecast on TV-6 at 8 p.m. with Joe Starkey and George Logan handling the play-by-play.

With each team having played 18 games through Monday, San Diego holds a 24 point edge on the Surf by a 99-75 point standing. California's record is now 9-9, but the Surf will meet the Philadelphia Fury in a midweek game in Anaheim.

The Sockers will carry their 11-7 record into Saturday's match, and their 99 points are the third highest total in the NASL, behind New York, 120, and Portland 107. San Diego continues to be ranked second in league goal-production, having scored 37 times, while the Cosmos also lead that category with 53 goals in 16 games.

San Diego will be looking to avenge an earlier 2-1 overtime loss to the Surf at San Diego Stadium.

It will be the 5th series rematch of the '78 season for the Sockers, as they have, to date swept 2 games from Portland, and split with Detroit, Tampa, and Memphis. The Memphis series saw each team win by identical scores, 4-3; each game was won three minutes into overtime, and three penalty kicks played decisive roles in the series.

Following 7 games in 21 days, the Sockers get a full week of rest to mend in preparation for Saturday's game. Sockers coach Hubert Vogelsinger said, "When you play a game every three days your minor injuries turn into big factors, and that has happened to us. We have five players with strains and bruises who will be healthy for Saturday, but who haven't had a chance to rest until now. I know the players are looking forward to meeting the Surf again because we felt embarrassed losing to them at home.

The next soccer home game is July 14.

3-Wheel Hondas Back at S. Bay

After a week off and a pair of races to think about, the rough-and-tumble steeplechase motorcylists and 3-wheel Honda performers return to action Friday night with another program at South Bay Park's Speedway 117.

Trials and practice for the motorbikes, 3-wheelers and some 4-wheel Odysseys begin at 6:30 p.m. with the first event for expected field of 70 riders starting at 8 p.m. With the continued increase in the number of entries, the total events should be set at 23.

The TT motorcyclists will battle for the 10 key spots in a swift 12-lap main event over a twisting course within the quarter mile oval while the three-wheel gang will utilize a 3/8th mile course which takes in part of the motocross. Each of the 8 classes will have a 6-lap runoff.

Eddie Beeson of Carlsbad will be shooting for his third straight win in the 126 to 250cc TT division while Mitch Mitchell of Spring Valley looks good in the open feature.

Top entries in the three-wheel class will be Marty Matte and Larry Proctor of Spring Valley, Mark Weixeldorfer of National City, and Terry Gilbert of Jamul.

Midgets return to S.B. Saturday night.

Grove Man Rates In Baja Off-Road

Lemon Grove driver, Frank Howarth, finished second in the 4-wheel drive production vehicles (Class 3) race of the recent 4th annual SCORE Baja Internacionale.

He drove an International Harvester Scout.

The 430-mile long race over rugged terrtain heavily rutted from the heavy spring rains and with temperatures ranging to 120 degrees in the desert areas, carries a race-vehicle mortality rate of 70 percent. Less than a third of the starters finish the event.

Post to Install Officers Friday

Mission Valley Veterans of Foreign Wars Post and Auxiliary No. 3787 will hold their "Passing of the Gavel" ceremony Friday evening, at the Post Home, 4370 Twain ave., in San Diego.

Master of ceremonies will be Phillip Wagner, Past Commander of the Post, and Mrs. Virginia Conway will act as mistress of ceremonies.

Outgoing President, Mrs. Wilda Arnold, will honor her chairmen and others who worked for the veterans during the year.

Mrs. Shirley Weaver will present Mrs. Arnold with her past president's pin, and Commander Thomas Melby will present the guard to the pin from the Post.

Commander Melby and president-elect, Mrs. Betty Haxel, will introduce the new slate of officers and chairmen for the ensuing year.

A roast beef dinner wil be at 7 with the ceremony to follow. A live band will provide music for a dance.

Sunday Test For J.O. Tobin At HollyPark

Vigors, the "white tornado" whose thrilling stretch charges have made him the darling of S. Cal. racing fans, and J.O. Tobin, who never has lost in 6 career starts at Hollywood Park, will clash for the first time Sunday in the $350,000 Hollywood Gold Cup.

One of the country's most prestigious events for the handicap division, the mile and one-quarter Gold Cup was won in dramatic fashion last summer by Crystal Water.

Vigors, formerly regarded as a turf specialist, has blossomed into a legitimate candidate for Handicap Horse of the Year honors by virtue of his four straight dirt-track wins this year.

He was voted Horse of the Meeting at Santa Anita, where he climaxed his campaign with a Santa Anita Handicap victory. After a 13-week layoff due to a throat infection, he was most impressive taking the Bel Air Handicap in his seasonal debut at Hollypark.

The Gold Cup provides a classic match-up, since J.O. Tobin certainly figures to be the speed of the race. It was at a mile and one-quarter that he shocked all of racing last summer, blitzing Seattle Slew by eight lengths in the Swaps Stakes.

This season, J.O. Tobin has annexed the Premiere and Los Angeles Handicaps and The Californian and Steve Cauthen, aboard for each of those wins, will return from New York to handle J.O. Tobin in the Gold Cup for trainer Laz Barrera.

Bullrope and Bell Is Grapple Feature

Bullropes with a bell.

That's the headline match Tuesday between Moondog Mayne and Hector Guererro.

In such fights adversaries are joined by a 6-foot rope. The bell adds to the confusion. Mayne claims the title "King of the Bullropes". As an added incentive, the loser will leave town.

In a grudge tag team match, Roddy Piper and the Great Goliath tangle with Carlos Mota and Black Gordman.

Professor Ito of Japan is challenged by Singh of India, and Park Choo of China greets Tonga of American Samoa.

There'll be another equally unusual bout all of which starts at 7:30 p.m.

It's Your Money

John Foley, of San Diego, was associated with Bank of America for 30 years in all phases of lending, specializing in real estate loans.

He has been lending officer at downtown S.D., Linda Vista, Oceanside and has been manager of the Midway-Rosecrans, Fletcher Hills and Ocean Beach BofA branches.

His experience gives him an unusual insight into money matters.

Foley will produce a weekly column in this newspaper.

Here is his first. It is directed at those many local people who operate their own businesses. While the first 2 relate to the business person, others will cover the entire spectrum of money matters.

Management Succession

First Part of 2

You are a small-business person. Your business falls into one of three main categories—a sole proprietorship, a partnership, or a corporation.

In any case, business managers, or owners are problem solvers.

Chances are you have a problem you haven't solved or even given much thought to—that of who will succeed you in the event of death, long-term disability, or retirement.

As an owner, manager, or president, you have provided protection for the inventory, equipment and the premises. You have insurance to cover the physical assets and you have safety devices to protect your workers. You are taking good care of your "baby." So you think.

What have you done to ensure the company's continuance, your family's interest, perpetuate your business in the community, or the jobs of your workers?

Most likely not much. Short-sighted management puts off preparing for the inevitable until it is usually too late, because of the unpredictable time of necessity.

Constructive action for management succession is just as important as the day to day decisions. Before you can start on your plan you must convince yourself of the need; that you have been reluctant to plan, and begin immediately.

Letters To The Editor

Message is Austerity And Frugality

Dear Editor:

Here is a copy of a message I presented to the City Council at the Monday (6/19/78) meeting.

by Vice Mayor Robert Burns

The message from the people, via the Jarvis-Gann Proposition 13 that was overwhelmingly approved is very clear. It is time for us to reaffirm our pledges of frugality, and to commit ourselves to fulfilling those promises that we made to the citizens of Lemon Grove prior to the Incorporation election.

The present budgetary considerations before us, are the first tests of our commitment to those promises, and the people of Lemon Grove will closely scrutinize our actions with this in mind. We are indeed fortunate that we are starting from square one and do not have any ponderous budgetary loads to carry. Our Fire Department is solvent, paid for, and has a healthy reserve. The minimal road and park maintenance that we have received in the past can well be embellished without a great amount of expenditure. Our contract services can certainly improve upon past services while remaining within affordable limits. It is my conviction that our constituents want a "bare bones" government that will provide them with as much service as possible within the guidelines of common sense and dollar responsibility. It is my concern that we may become influenced by the heady wine of 6 and 7 digit numbers, which conjures up things like Superblock City Halls and Redevelopment schemes.

The people of Lemon Grove went to maintain our town "like it is," yet improve the lifestyle of those areas of service where there is genuine need and where it benefits the residents.

With the Lemon Grove Fire Protection District as our example, we can stretch the tax dollar to provide the most direct service, without frills or bureaucratic waste, with complete fiscal responsibility, and with a more than adequate contingency reserve. If we use the levels of service that has been provided by the County in the past as a baseline, and work upward to improve them on a priority list indicated by the public input, we can stretch that dollar. If we pattern the management of our City after our own businesses, our household budgets, and husband our income to meet our everyday needs, plus preparing for that ever possible "rainy day." we will be fulfilling our campaign promises to the people.

All of our deliberations and actions should be as if all of the citizens of Lemon Grove were present and looking over our shoulders . . . because they are.

Bob Burns
City of Lemon Grove

Ed.'s Note:

The same theme was in City Manager Jack Shelver's cover letter accompanying the City's 1978-1979 budget which was approved by the council Monday night.

Frugality, it appears, will be the keynote for the coming year. Shelver, however, calls it "austere."'

Raps the New City

June 17, 1978

Dear Editor:

For years the residents of Lemon Grove were bombarded with debate over the virtues of becoming a city. Finally it was accepted and for nearly a year Lemon Grove has been a city.

We have been anxiously awaiting all the proposed benefits while we continue to pay for trash pick up while watching our streets deteriorate.

Filth and debris clutter our streets (the intersection at Massachusetts and Broadway is an excellent example). The storm drain on Drew lane was clogged during the rainy spell and our street was flooded. As far as I know the drain has yet to be cleared.

In short, nothing has changed except for the receipt of an additional tax imposed by the City of Lemon Grove on my wife's part time jewelry business.

Hooray for the benefits of living in a city!

ROP Courses Cancelled In Wake of Prop. 13

The more than 50 summer courses operated by the Regional Occupational Program (ROP) have been cancelled because of passage of Proposition 13, the property tax limitation initiative.

The decision affects some 650 high school and adult students who signed up for the classes which were to begin June 19. South Bay classes were scheduled to begin June 12. More than 80 ROP teachers will have to find employment elsewhere this summer.

County Superintendent of Schools M. Ted Dixon said the cancellation was necessary because of the uncertainty of funding for ROP. The program is funded by local and state taxes.

ROP is administered by the San Diego County Department of Education with participating school districts providing teachers and classroom programs.

It is a countywide public education service which provides job training, counseling and placement assistance for county residents in 21 high school and community college districts.

There is no charge for ROP's 160 courses or for other program services such as career counseling, vocational testing and career, adult school and college information. By the end of this year, ROP will have helped more than 70,000 residents obtain new or better paying jobs.

The cancellation not only works financial hardships on the unemployed teachers, Dixon said, but on the students who were depending on the courses for better jobs and, in some cases, for their first job.

"Some students had not completed certain courses and were counting on summer school to complete their education," he said. "Other students need training for specific jobs that may be lost if they don't receive that training. In some cases, students have quit jobs to get that training and now it has been canceled."

High school districts participating in ROP and canceling summer school courses are Borrego Springs, Carlsbad, Coronado, Escondido, Fallbrook, Grossmont, Julian, Mountain Empire, Oceanside, Poway, Ramona, San Diego, San Dieguito, San Marcos, Sweetwater and Vista.

Community college districts announcing cancellations are Grossmont, Mira Costa, Palomar, San Diego and Sweetwater.

HONORED FOR EXCELLENCE—U.S. Army Captain Kenneth E. Burke, center, son of Mary E. Burke of Lemon Grove, is awarded the Army Commendation Medal by Colonel Joseph J. Scott, left, commander of the garrison at Fort Indiantown Gap, Pennsylvania. Accompanying Burke are wife Jo Anne and son Kenneth, 6.

Son of Lemon Grove Woman Wins US Army Commendation Medal

U. S. Army Captain Kenneth E. Burke, son of Mary E. Burke of 2451 Buena Vista ave. in Lemon Grove, has been awarded the Army Commendation Medal for the excellence of his work at the Army garrison at Fort Indiantown Gap, Pennsylvania.

A 1964 graduate of Mt. Miguel High School, Burke has been in the Army 9 years and has been stationed at Fort Indiantown Gap since 1975, initially serving as plans and operations officer.

A year ago he became Commander of Headquarters Company and the 225th Military Police Detachment at the post.

The award was accompanied by a certificate stating "Captain Burke performed his duties in an outstanding manner and consistently demonstrated the highest standards of military professionalim.

"His initiative and competence greatly enhanced the readiness posture of the command. His dedication, loyalty and resourcefulness earned him the admiration and respect of all with whom he served."

Burke, whose new assignment is in Panama, is married to the former JoAnne Lange of San Diego, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Lange of 1324 Cornwall, Spring Valley. The Burkes are parents of three children, Jana Diane (11), Kelley Anne (8) and Kenneth Alfred (6).

Cleo Thompson, Jr. a Lemon Grove resident, was recently named Loan Officer for the main office of Home Federal Savings and Loan of San Diego.

Thompson, a graduate of National University, joined Home Federal in 1977 as a loan officer trainee. He had previously been the branch and area manager for the TransAmerica Title Insurance and Escrow Company.

He came to San Diego in 1970 after service with the Marine Corps, and was graduated Magna Cun Laude from National University in 1976.

5 Local SDSU Students In Phi Beta Kappa

Four San Diego State University students from Spring Valley and one from Lemon Grove were among 87 SDSU students initiated recently into Phi Beta Kappa, the nation's oldest honorary scholastic society.

Michael Eugene Harris, John Edward McPherson, Marlene Alise Rice and Daniel C. J. Hillman, all of Spring Valley and Robert Sal Balderas of Lemon Grove were the local inductees.

Hillman was one of five inductees who had only completed their junior year in college.

Membership in the society is restricted to students with a minimum grade point average of 3.5 out of a possible 4.0 in the liberal arts and sciences.

San Diego State's Nu chapter elected five students who were completing only their junior year in college for the first time in its four-year history. This is an exceptional honor since only one per cent of the total number of initiates may be juniors, according to Dr. Roberta Borkat, president of the chapter.

Dr. Robert Edwin Kennedy, president of California Polytechnic State University, was selected as honored alumni member and Dr. James Ensign Crouch, professor emeritus in the SDSU zoology department, was awarded an honorary membership. These awards are made to persons whose careers demonstrate distinguished scholarly capacities.

Dr. John Spangler of the SDSU chemistry department was elected president for 1978-1979.

Help on Taxes, Rent Available to Seniors

Senior citizens property tax and rent assistance claim forms were mailed to almost half a million older homeowners and renters last week, the Franchise Tax Board announced.

Don Whitney, director of the Senior Citizens Property Tax Assistance Program, said 97,000 renter forms and 392,000 homeowner forms were mailed in time for the start of the filing period June 16.

Last year, the State paid 326,000 homeowner claims averaging $239 and 90,000 renter claims averaging $75 per claim, Whitney said.

The forms were sent to all homeowners and renters who received assistance last year and to others who have inquired about the program.

The homeowners program provides partial reimbursement of 1977-78 property taxes to seniors who were 62 or older on December 31, 1977, own and occupy their home, and had $12,000 or less in total household income for 1977. Assistance can range from four to 96 per cent of the taxes, depending on the income of the claimant.

Rent assistance is available to seniors over 62, who paid $50 or more a month in rent last year, and who had $5,0000 or less in total household income during 1977. A one time assistance payment can range from $9 to a maximum of $211, depending on income.

The filing period began June 16 and will extend through Oct, 2 this year, Whitney said.

Kids Who Can't Speak English Will Be Denied HS Diplomas

Limited- and non-English speaking youngsters are often denied quality bilingual education programs, yet under California state law by 1980 will be denied a high school diploma if they cannot pass minimum proficiency standards in English.

Joan Baratz of the Educational Policy Research Institute in Washington, D.C., in an address to a session of a recent bilingual education conference in San Diego said bilingual education is not accounted for at all in the push for minimum competency testing around the country, which she said is "not a tool for reform, but a way of putting the burden on the back of kids."

The three-day conference, sponsored by the Institute for Cuultural Pluralism at San Diego State University and coordinated by the San Diego County Department of Education, was for county administrators, teachers and parents.

Opening the first day session was keynote speaker Jose Cardenas, executive director of Intercultural Development Research Association, who addressed the legal status of bilingual education.

Baratz said more than 45 states are in the process of implementing minimum proficiency standards for high school graduation. "The public is saying it isn't going to listen to the school," she said. "It wants something to assure it that the schools are doing their job."

But, Baratz said, from tests come results and blame must be assigned for those results. With minimum competency testing, the blame is focused on the students, she said.

Minimum competency standards vary from state to state. Some states have statewide standards while others, like California, leave it up to local school districts to set their own standards.

Baratz said in developing competency tests educators have an obligation to formulate a test that is nondiscriminatory, but added, "there isn't a test on the market that isn't discriminatory against minorities."

According to Baratz, 77 per cent of black students and 24 per cent of Chicano students failed Florida schools' minimum competency test.

Baratz, who called the minimum competency standards push a "terrible mess," said the public is demanding tests on filling out forms and balancing checkbooks even though these functional skills have not been traditionally emphasized in all schools.

Legally, she said, the tests must cover what the educational system has taught. Students also must be given adequate warning that they will be expected to pass graduation standards, she said. It's not too early to tell kindergarten students that they must take and pass these tests in the twelfth grade in order to receive a diploma.

Cardenas told an opening session audience that 30 of the 50 states have passed bilingual education legislation, but only nine — including California — have mandatory programs.

He said the Civil Rights Act of 1964 and the Equal Educational Opportunities Act of 1974 provide legal basis for bilingual education programs which are the responsibility of local school districts and the states.

Cardenas, who's been involved in numerous court cases and administrative hearings including the landmark Lau vs. Nichols case before the California Supreme Court, said he believes the recent Texas court ruling which states illegal alients are not entitled to a free public education will be overturned.

The court ruled that illegal aliens must pay for their children's education since the schools cannot collect money for these students from the state.

Locking the students out of the schools violates the equal protection clause of the Constitution since rich illegal aliens can pay to send their children to school and the poor cannot, he said.

The children are being denied an education, Cardenas said, when it is the parents who should be dealt with.

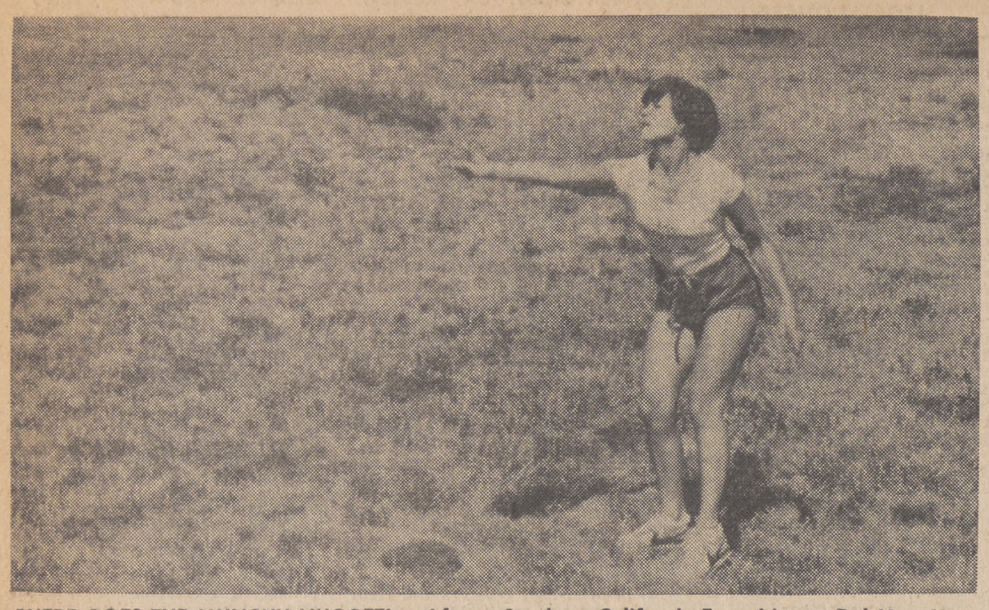
Traditional Sack

According to tradition, the last word uttered before the tongues were confounded at Babel was "sack."



THERE GOES THE MUNCHY NUGGET! — After displaying her initial disgust with her new "organic frisbee" (see page 1), Lemon Grove's Dianne Langefeld lets go with her first-ever cow chip toss, undoubtedly the first of many practice throws in her preparation for next Wednesday's cow chip tossing contest at the Southern California Exposition at Del Mar. Ms. Langefeld, a staff sergeant in the U.S. Army Reserve and a recruiter, said she's had no heat from her superiors over her cow chip chucking and hopes it'll bring the reserve some good publicity.

Albino Animals Like 'Neon Signs'

Stories about human ghosts —eerie, white, and shimmering—have sent chills around many a campfire. The animal world doesn't have campfires, but it does have "ghosts."

They are albino animals.

These rare creatures — like human albinos—lack the normal amount of melanin, a body chemical that causes coloration, explains Ranger Rick's Nature Magazine, a monthly children's publication from the National Wildlife Federation.

Pure albinos have no melanin at all, so their skin, hair, and feathers are totally white. Their eyes and ears are pink, and their bodies take on a pinkish cast from the blood in vessels near the skin's surface.

"Among most animals, albinos are very rare," says Ranger Rick. But most people have seen some common albinos, such as mice and chickens, that have been bred to perpetuate this condition.

Their feeble eyesight, sensitivity to light, and lack of camouflage make survival in the wild a real challenge for albino animals, points out the NWF magazine. Without coloring to conceal them, they are easy targets for predators. Like neon signs, they advertise their presence to their own prey, which scamper away to safety.

Wildlife biologists suggest albinism may be fairly common, but so few albino animals survive to adulthood in the wild that catching a glimpse of them is rare.

As if life weren't tough enough, some albinos are blind. Such was the case of one albino white-tailed deer found by a rancher. Knowing how flimsy its chances were for survival, the rancher took the "ghost animal" home where it became the constant companion of a small donkey. Discovering the deer was blind, the rancher came up with a clever idea. He tied a bell around the donkey's neck, giving the deer a "seeing eye friend."

Not all pure white animals are albinos, Ranger Rick cautions wildlife observers. The way to tell is by looking at the eyes. Pink means albino.

In winter the showshoe hare, the arctic fox, and the ptarmigan, may look, at first glance, like albinos. But their eyes are dark.

And come spring, the colored fur or feathers that were shed or molted in the fall will return. Albinos remain the ghostly figures of the animal world all year round.

Ask Your C.H.P.

C.H.P Capt. C. M. Douglas

Last time Capt. Douglas discussed freeway breakdowns.

If you have a question, no matter how insignificant it way appear to you, ask it. It could save your life—or at least save you a citation.

Address your questions to this newspaper and allow several weeks for your question to appear.

This week's question:

"I am still confused about two-way leftturn lanes. Could you explain how they are marked and the proper procedure for turning from them?"

Capt. Douglas' answer:

The designated two-way left turn lanes are either marked by two parallel sets of dashed, double yellow lines or by solid outside lines and broken inside lines. The law states that a left turn must be made from the two-way lane if it is provided.

Your approach for your left turn should be made in the two-way left turn lane except when preparing for or making a left turn from or into a highway or when preparing for or making a U-turn when otherwise permitted by law.

A left turn should not be made from any other lane where a two-way left turn lane has been provided.

Fiscal Reforms Possible Under Jarvis-Gann Now

While the passage of Proposition 13 poses a serious problem for both local-government home rule and the economy of California, it may also offer opportunities to exact fiscal reforms which would have been politically unrealistic under other circumstances, according to Kirk West of the California Taxpayers Association.

He cited the following items as subjects deserving immediate consideration:

The potential for shifting from taxes to fees to finance many public services.

The consolidation of emergency services, such as police and fire protection, in many jurisdictions.

The reform of the civil service system and revision of teacher tenure laws, with emphasis on increasing productivity and accountability.

The option of "voucher plan" financing of California public schools.

The trimming or abandonment of marginal or non-essential services still provided by schools, cities, and counties.

The reform and tightening of public pension programs.

The consolidation of fractured units of local government.

West said that to ensure that the new amendment begets expenditure control in government — rather than a simple tax shift from one government level to another — these and other issues will have to be tackled.

He singled out the proposition's 2 per cent lid on reassessments and its prohibition against locally issued general obligation bonds as the measure's "two most troublesome provisions."

"The lid will soon cause serious economic inequities among similarly situated taxpayers, while Section 4 will prevent the orderly financing of necessary capital programs," he said.

West said state leaders will have to move fast to make critical determinations as to whether the state assumption of local welfare, court, elections, and education costs is in the best interest of taxpayers.

To prevent a tax shift, West said, a constitutional limit on state and local spending will be necessary. "Since the property tax is now rigidly controlled by a 1 per cent lid, there will be mounting pressure at the state level to increase sales and income taxes — two revenue sources which have actually grown at twice the rate of the property tax in the last ten years.

"Without a reasonable spending limitation of some sort, total spending in the 'post-Jarvis' era could soon outpace spending rates recorded in the 'pre-Jarvis' period."

Jobs Offered to Youth

Applications for a new youth employment program are now accepted at the Metropolitan Area Advisory Committee (MAAC) Project's various intake offices throughout the county.

The program, funded and sponsored by the Department of Labor, is designed to assist economically disadvantaged teenagers who are out of school or attend adult or continuation school.

Under the program, qualified youths will receive experience in their employment field at $2.65 an hour. The objective is to enable participants to find regular, unsubsidized employment in private industry.

Interested parties in East County should apply to the El Cajon office, 127 E. Lexington, Suite G, El Cajon. The number is 579-6861.

FAA Updates Rules For Air Carriers

The Department of Transportation's Federal Aviation Administration has adopted 22 amendments updating its regulations on air carrier operations.

Among them are amendments that will:

- Strengthen emergency training procedures by requiring each crewmember to actually operate emergency exits, fire extinquishers, oxygen bottles, and other emergency-equipment during training.
- Allow the use of operationally - oriented simulator training programs to meet pilot training and proficiency requirements.
- Allow flag carriers operating on domestic routes to carry the same fuel reserves as domestic carriers.

The amendments apply to Part 121 of the Federal Aviation Regulations which sets the standards for certification and operation of domestic, flag and supplemental air carriers as well as commercial operators of large aircraft.

At the same time the agency adopted 57 miscellaneous amendments to the Federal Aviation Regulations. These range from one specifying the number and type of management personnel required for air travel clubs to one requiring a person who makes a parachute jump at night to display a light that is visible for three miles.

The two groups of amendments are the fourth and fifth in a series of such amendments that have resulted from the agency's Operations Review Conference of December 1975. They were printed in the Federal Register on May 25 and will become effective on June 26.

$1 Million Pledged For Aerospace Center

The largest single donation to the Aerospace Recovery Fund campaign was presented last week by Ted E. Gildred from the Gildred Foundation.

A first incremental check of $50,000 was given as part of a $1 million pledge. The Gildred Foundation was established by pioneer aviator Theodore Gildred in 1965. It is planned to name the rotunda at the entrance of the new Aerospace Historical Center as the Theodore Gildred Flight Rotunda.

The donation brings the cash and cash pledges to nearly $1.5 million. In addition, more than $600,000 in loaned and donated aircraft, memorabilia and other gifts-in-kind have been pledged. According to the Recovery Plan, the new Aerospace Historical Center is to open December 17, 1978, the 75th anniversary of the Wright Brothers' flight.

Free 'Weatherization' Available to the Poor

The Metropolitan Area Advisory Committee (MAAC) Weatherization Program is now offering free services to qualified low income homeowners in San Diego County to help reduce their energy costs.

The services include installation of ceiling insulation, repair of broken windows and weatherstripping and caulking around doors and windows. These passive weatherization efforts will help reduce consumption of both gas and electricity.

MAAC, a county-wide organization with 22 offices, will provide the materials and skilled labor. MAAC's Weatherization Program is funded through the Regional Employment and Training Consortium (RETC, and Community Action Partnership (CAP) of San Diego County and is undertaken in cooperation with San Diego Gas & Electric.

SDG&E has been providing assistance to the MAAC project for more than a year. The company developed a "mini-audit," or survey, to check homes for areas of possible conservation. SDG&E representatives also trained MAAC personnel to conduct the audits.

After energy audits or weatherization efforts are undertaken at a home, SDG&E monitors the customer's energy consumption for several months to provide information on the effectiveness of conservation work.

Persons eligible for the free services are homeowners with low incomes. For a single non-farm person, the top income which can be earned and still remain within the guidelines is $3,925 per year. For two people, the limit is $5,200.

A family of three, $6,475; a family of four, $7,750; a family of five, $9,825; and a family of six, $10,300. For families living on farms, the limits are lower. For further information,call the MAAC project at 474-7004.

Qualified senior citizens are also eligible to take part in the MAAC project of energy audits and weatherization.

Interested persons who want to learn more about the MAAC project are invited to attend an open house, from noon to 4 p.m. tomorrow at at MAAC's headquarters, 140 W. 16th st., National City.

The scholarship entitles Villagomez to 4 days of intensive dance instruction.
